THE TWO ASSASSINS by Renatus Hartogs. The author is the psychiatrist who examined Lee Harvey Oswald in 1953 when Oswald was 13 and a problem child in school. If his report had been acted on, history today would be very different. This examination of the lives of Oswald and Jack Ruby, drawn largely from the Warren Commission Report, is also a blast at Momism and a guide to finding the other Oswalds in our midst. Crowell; $5.95.
